

EMSI ANNOUNCES THE LAUNCH OF A NEW FLEX-MT PLUS™ & PRO-FIT™ SERIES OF PRODUCTS NATIONWIDE

TAMPA, FL – December 7, 2015 – EMSI, a National leader in providing devices that treat pain and muscle related injuries, today announced plans to launch two new products, the Flex MT-Plus™ (Neuromuscular Electrical Stimulation) and the Pro-Fit™ line of braces. The products are designed to provide all-in-one solutions for pain relief, muscle re-education, and stabilization of knee joints and lower back.

The Flex-MT Plus™, the successor of EMSI's Flex-MT®, is designed to aid in muscle re-education, increase blood circulation, and reduce muscle atrophy in patients throughout the healing process. The Flex-MT Plus™ will provide a much stronger treatment option while maintaining the same form and functionality of the Flex-MT®. With a twenty-four percent (24%) electrode size increase, the Flex-MT Plus™ is able to contract larger groups of muscles and affect a much larger treatment area more comfortably and effectively.

The Pro-Fit™ series is new line of bracing intended to stabilize affected areas, assist in healing, and prevent further injury. The initial line will be designed for the knee and back with other variations set for release in the future. The Pro-Fit™ line of braces may be used independently, or in conjunction with the Flex-MT Plus™. Combined, Pro-Fit™ and the Flex-MT Plus™ can provide patients a safe, non-invasive and effective way of treating muscle related issues, as well as long term solution to recovery from injury and chronic muscle conditions.

The Pro-Fit™ series have been cleared for use and marketing by Pricing, Data Analysis and Coding (PDAC). The Flex-MT Plus has been cleared by the FDA. They are both expected to be available in select markets in 2015 with a nationwide availability by the first quarter of 2016.
